

- of him, ib.; his request to M. Bourrierme, 95; His letter to Bonaparte, 96.
- ^Bouliny, M., arrives at Hamburg, ii. 358.
- ^Boulogne, Bp. of, a French emigrant, iii. 52.
- Bouillierie, M. de la, Intendant-Q-eneral of the King's household, iv. 230, n.
- Bourbon, Infante Louis de (Count of Leghorn), travels through France, ii. 48; Napoleon's opinion of, 49; enters Florence, 50; his reception, ib.
- Bourbons, during the Cent Jours, iv. 300 et seq.; end of, 302.
- Uourmont, General, his defection, iv. 141, n., 189.
- iSournonville, General, assists Bonaparte in reviewing the troops, i. 243.
- JZourienne et ses Erreurs*, account of General Pichegru's arrest in, ii. 248.
- ^Bourrienne, M., his intimacy with Napoleon, i. 5; Madame de Montesson's remark respecting him, 9; urged by Napoleon to enter the army, 13; proceeds to Vienna, 15; repairs to Leipsic, ib./ translates Kotzebue's Menschenhass und JKeile, ib.; renews his intimacy with Napoleon at Paris, 16; appointed Secretary of Legation at Stuttgart, 18; his name on the list of emigrants, ib.; exertions to get it erased, ib.; returns from Germany, 26; his friendship for Bonaparte, 28; notice of his arrest, 33; his interview with Napoleon, 42; receives a letter from him, 45; from Marmont, 47, 48, 49; repairs to the Venetian territory, ib.; his account of the insurrection of Verona, 50; rejoins Napoleon at Leoben, 55; placed at the head of his Cabinet, ib.; changes his name, 56; Bonaparte's remarks to, 58; his extracts from a manuscript, 70;
- Mar-quis de Gallo's offer to him, 95; persuaded to return to Paris by Napoleon, 107; his intimacy with Josephine, 108; accompanies him to the different ports, 115; prepares for his departure for Egypt, 120; hires an emigrant for his servant, 124; arrives at Malta, 126; anecdote of, 129; his friendship for General Kle"ber, 135; assists Perree in his engagement against the Turks, 142; reaches Gizeb, ib.; Napoleon's remarks to, ib.; writes a letter by his desire, 143; his remarks to Napoleon, 149; Napoleon's remarks to, 160, 216; saves a man from the bastinado, 160; orders written by, 160; accompanies Napoleon to Suez, 164; visits the Wells of Moses, 16"); his anecdote of Berthier, 168; fiends :iKli:i\vl to M i<l;uYH>
- Bourrienne. ib.:

his attention to
 General Caffarelli,
 185; Napoleon's
 orders to, 193; gives up his horses to the wounded, ib.; writes
 Napoleon's
 proclamations, 200;
 writes the orders for the departure of the troops to Alexandria, 204; returns to France with Napoleon, 206;
 intercedes for M.
 Parseval Grandmaison, 212; his justification of Napoleon, 220; his letter to his wife, ib.;
 endeavors to reconcile Napoleon to Josephine, 224;
 informed of Napoleon's
 breakfasting with Bernadotte, 233; his visit to Barras, 240;
 with La Valette, 245;
 persuades Napoleon
 to leave the Council of Ancients, 248; writes Napoleon's address to the Parisians, 254;
 accompanies him to
 Paris, 257; saves M.
 Moreau de Worms
 from banishment, 264;
 Napoleon's orders to,
 269, 287; his
 translations, 306;
 Napoleon's remarks
 to, 318; anecdote of, 326; ridiculous story
 respecting, 329;
 Prefect of Police, 333;
 removes to the Tuileries, 337; his interest for M.
 Defeu's release, 347;
 thanked by his friends, ib.; requests the pardon of M. de Frotte, 348;
 Napoleon's present to,
 352, 353; his interview with Josephine, 354;
 discharges her debts,
 356; his evening
 promenades with Napoleon, 357;
 anecdote of, 360; his observations on the Pont des Arts, 361; Napoleon's confidence in, 365; his duties, ib., n.; his compliment to him, 391; repairs to San Giuliano, 394;
 writes Napoleon's letter to his colleagues, ii. 1;
 writes for the erasure
 of Durosé
 Beaumauoir's name from the list of emigrants, 18; anecdote of, 19; his interest for M. Tissot, 26; dines with Fouche", 33; Joseph Bonaparte's treachery to, 34; Napoleon's distrust of, ib.; his reconciliation, 35; informs him of the battle of Alexandria, 45; appointed
 Councillor of State extraordinary, 56;
 anecdote of, 78; proposes the return of the emigrants, 79; his advice to General Bernadotte, 98; Napoleon's remarks to,
 102; his quarrel
 with Napoleon, 129;
 tenders his resignation, 130;
 accepted, ib.;
 persuaded to
 remain, 132;
 Napoleon's question
 to, 142; his affected
 regard for him, 162;
 account of his
 disgrace, 163, 166, 174, n.; M. Mene-
 val's letters to, 169;
 his formal dismissal, 171; Duroc's letters
 to, ib., 172, 173;
 conceals his notes,
 172; his letter to Bonaparte, 173;
 defends himself, 174,
n.; General Rapp's advice to, 182; sent for by Napoleon, 205; M. Corvieuart's visit to, 289; sent for by the Emperor, 291; hurt